

Three Things You Didn't Know About Bobbie

1. I can do mirror writing. That is: writing longhand backwards, and when you hold it up in front of a mirror you can read what it says. It's something that I never taught myself, it was something I could do from the first moment I tried it. It's a fun party trick.
2. I've escaped deadly snakes two times. Once, when I was three months old. The other when I was a grownup. The first time was in Africa. A deadly snake got into my baby pram when it was standing out in the garden. We had two large Rhodesian Ridgebacks. One of them got into the pram and pulled the snake out. But sadly, the dog was bitten and died. The second time was when I was on a safari in South Africa. The only time we could get out of the car was to go down to a watering hole. We went down a tunnel made by bamboo sticks. I saw a green plant sticking out from between the bamboo. So I pulled on it. And I pulled out a green mamba by its tail. The snake was so startled that it panicked and took off. Our guide later told me I'm the luckiest guy on earth.
3. I can eat really spicy food. Once when I was twelve, in an Indian restaurant in London, the chef came out from the kitchen to watch me eat the hottest dish they had.
