A fantastic quick read with brilliant illustrations. I can't wait to find out what happens to Troy next.

When Troy's parents are shot by a terrorist group, the Army of Freedom, he is miraculously unscathed. Somehow the bullets which hit him didn't do any real damage, he is only bruised by them. He can't explain this at all but it might be the reason why he is immediately recruited into SPEAR, an organisation which protects the rich and powerful. Troy is given the job of protecting Pandora, the mayor's daughter and he has to use all of his skills to save her when the Army of Freedom attack. Will Troy survive and will he be able to complete his assignment successfully?

I really enjoyed 'Bullet Catcher' and the illustrations were brilliant but I would have preferred it to be much longer. It got straight into the action but I think that a longer build-up and more details would have been better. As a quick read it was fantastic and it certainly left me wanting to know more about Troy and what happens to him next. I can't wait for the next book in the trilogy.

I really enjoyed this Chris Bradford book and am going to look out for his other stories next time I am in the library.

I was immediately attracted to this book - who could resist picking up a book with bullet holes in the front cover?! The story was very fast paced and exciting, with Troy's parents being shot and killed and Troy surviving against all the odds right at the start. Even though this book was short, it was brimming with adventure and interesting characters. It was great to read about teenagers with special powers and senses being recruited as bodyguards for the rich and famous. If this is the first book in the trilogy, I shall definitely look forward to reading the next two!

Tomasz Hawryszczuk, age 10

I loved this book. It was a quick read but really exciting. A boy who gets shot but doesn't die is a rare find. His skills are put to use in a team to protect people.

This is about a boy called Troy who gets caught up in a shooting. It is sad at the beginning but then Troy discovers that he can "dodge" bullets. He teams up with some other recruits to protect people. I thought this was a really exciting story. It had me gripped from the very first page and I read it in one night as there are only 95 pages. Well worth a read though if you like action all the way.

Louie Mee, age 9

I loved Bullet Catcher by Chris Bradford because of its THRILLING plot.

The character I liked the most was Lennox because he doesn't do much but only in the gym.

My favourite bit in the story was when Troy shot the AF soldier!

My favourite thing in the WHOLE story was superheroes so I would recommend it to MARVEL and DC fans. I thought it was soooo good I read it four times!

Dylan Sweet, age 11

I found this book very interesting; even though it's quite small, it packs a big punch. It has an amazing storyline and a good plot. The pictures are very detailed and gets you sucked into what is happening. A boy called Troy was just on a family trip to the mall when a terrorist attack occurred and shot his mother and father down. He was approached by one of the terrorists with blond hair and a tattoo and was shot several times. After this, he found himself to be a bullet catcher with skin ten times as strong as steel, he survived the attack....In this book, Troy gets sent to Spear and trains with other people with incredible abilities to stop these terrorists. I loved this book. It was very engrossing and I would rate it four star.

Thomas Newman, age 9

This is the eleventh Chris Bradford book I've read and I thought it was brilliant!

The story is about a boy whose parents get killed and he joins a group called The Bulletcatchers who are people who protect others. It's a very exciting adventure story and I really, really enjoyed it.
