A brilliant fantasy about magic, pirates and adventures with an exciting plot. I could really imagine the world it was set in.

This is an adventurous fantasy book about a boy and a girl called Marrill and Finn. Marrill comes from the human world and Finn comes from a magic world and has been brought up as an orphan in Quaznot Quay. Together they adventure across the pirate stream to find a cure for Marrill's mother. Finn is a really cool character and is a master thief who no one can remember (which is pretty useful) and he wants to find his mother because she is the only one who can remember him apart from Marrill. They journey with a wizard called Ardent and a sailor called Coll. They will have to find the Bintheyr map to everywhere but little do they know that an evil man called the Oracle wants to use the map to destroy the world.... I would rate this book 9\10 and would recommend it for boys and girls and people who like adventure and magic.

This book is packed with magic humor and excitement. 10 out of 10

for 'The Map To Everywhere'!

At the start the book is super confusing, but all is revealed when the characters eventually meet. The characters take you on an action packed adventure, meeting marvelous creatures, battling off super strong wizards on a poisonous barnacle boat and traveling on a exploding river. Meet unimaginable monsters and super powered wizards. I hope to find more books like 'The Map To Everywhere'. I would recommend this book to anyone who wants to go on an exciting journey. Well done Carrie Ryan and John Parke Davis for writing such an amazing book, I also loved the illustrations by Todd Harris and thought they helped me imagine the magical adventure.

Joseph Harris-Hart, age 12

This is a story about a boy named Fin. He is magical when ever he goes out of sight he is forgotten. In this book Fin goes on an quest to find his mother, the only person that might remember him.

I found this story difficult to follow at first and struggled to 'get into it'even after four chapters.

After that it became easier and was ok.

It is an adventure story with pirates, magic and wizardry and worth reading if you like that sort of thing. On this occasion it just didn't appeal to me though.

I agree it is suitable for 9-12 years

A brilliant adventure story full of magic and danger, everyone should read this.

This is the story about two children from different worlds. Finn is from a magical world and wants to find his mother because she is the only person who can remember him - everyone else forgets all about him when they aren't looking at him. Marrill is from our world and she boards a pirate ship that appears in the car park, she needs to find the map to get home. I liked the way the focus of the story kept switching to different characters so I could keep trying to guess what was going to happen to them next. There are lots of funny bits in the story but it is also full of adventure and twists and turns, I didn't want to stop reading it and I can't wait to find out what happens next.

Fin and Marril are trying to find the Map to Everywhere, hoping to achieve their goals. But can they escape an evil wizard who wants the Map too to fulfil a terrible prophecy?

This book was a bit boring for me. I read the first chapter and found it (to me) a little tedious. I found it a bit random and the chapters where confusing because first you would be in Fin's story and then the next chapter you would change to Marril's. I am more into stuff on just one planet and not in three different worlds at once.

I would rate it three stars and I'd recommend it to ages 8 and over.

I loved this book and found it gripping and hard to put down. The two main characters are very different but both need the map to help them in some kind of way.

This gripping book was fantastic and a must read. I absolutely loved it! It took me a while to get into it but once I had I loved it. I liked how the characters were very different but a map to everywhere was just the thing they both needed. It was very exciting.
