

Lovereading4kids Reader reviews of Timmy Failure: Now Look What You've Done By Stephan Pastis

Below are the complete reviews, written by Lovereading4kids members.

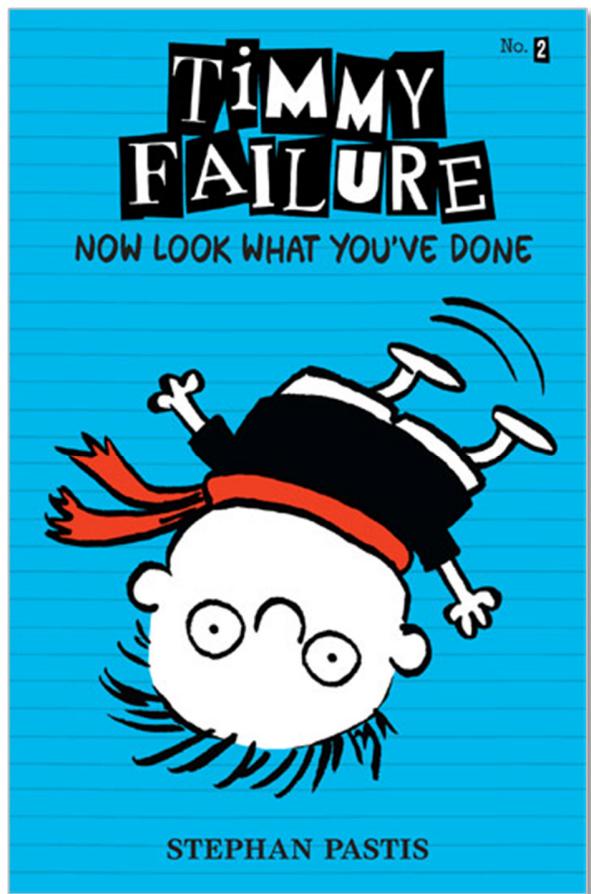

Lucy Minton, age 10

Stephan Pastis is a genius and his book had me gripped.

'Timmy Failure: Now look What You Have Done' is the second book in a hilarious series that follows the adventures of Timmy Failure. He is now on a quest to win a detective competition: a chance to show his true talent, as well as the fact that there is a magnificent prize up for grabs. But can Timmy, and his business partner Total, rise to grab the prize and become the ultimate detective of his school? Find out in this book - it is sure to make you laugh.

I enjoyed this book because it's very funny and the plot is very fast moving.

I was on the edge of my seat all the time. Stephan Pastis is a genius and his book had me gripped. I think you would enjoy this book if you love funny books as it made me laugh.

Tom Leicester, age 10

'Timmy Failure' tells the story of a boy called Timmy and his crazy life which takes him on adventures with odd characters such as a polar bear which always says "Hi" to him every time he sees him.

The book is set in Timmy's home, school and street. 'Achievement' is not an option in this book as Timmy ends up as a failure in the story. But that is not difficult because Timmy's life is not that great to start with at the beginning of the book.

Timmy Failure talks to the reader in the first person. He is funny but does not smile a lot and as you read through the book, you cannot help but like him.

I liked how fun the book was and the funny characters and I did like the direct voice of the main character talking to me. I felt like I went on his adventures with him right to the end. I felt both happy and sad for him at the end of the book. I liked the design of the book.

I'd like to say that there were things I didn't like about the book but I can't think of anything.

I liked the book, it made me laugh and the story was very addictive and I wanted to keep turning the pages.

*My overall score for the book is * (out of five stars).*

Dylan Sweet, age 10

This funny, random book stars a boy called Timmy Failure. From his name you are probably guessing he is a failure, but he is a detective with an assistant called Total. By the way, his assistant is a polar bear. He thinks he is the smartest person in the world, and the best detective but... he isn't.

*In this great book this little boy is trying to solve a mysterious case which is...a school competition to find a missing globe. My favourite bit in the book is when he is sitting on top of a bush shaped like an elephant because every time Timmy shouts something to his mum, the gardener chops off part of the bush. I would rate this book four stars and I think it's for girls and boys of the age eight. If you don't like this book you are mad because it's one of the best books ever written!

Adam Graham, aged 10

*This book is the best one I have ever read!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

That is because it is hilarious and in my opinion the best in the world! This unbelievably incredible book will make you want to read it 9753758 times. I know, it's that good!

It's the follow on to the recent publication of 'Timmy Failure: Mistakes Were Made', also an amazing book. 'Timmy Failure' is about a boy named Timmy, who runs a detective agency with his pet polar bear, Total. In 'Now Look What You've Done' he has to move home from a flat to his great aunt's mansion, only to find out she's hiding a secret away from Timmy, Total and Timmy's Mum.

Join Timmy, his friend Rollo, Total and Timmy's great aunt for a thrill-seeking adventure trying to solve the mystery of the missing globe. Will they get the right answer?

The author Stephan Pastis has used a number of unique jokes that are undoubtedly funny. I believe his use of comedy will make you laugh your socks off.

I think that this book would be ideal for any 7-13 year old readers that love comedy and are up for a good laugh. This book is amazing!!!!!!!!!! An ideal gift for keen readers.

Trust me it is worth 7898636383653783 wows!

Charlie Flood, age 10

'Timmy Failure' is awesome!! It is a very funny and enjoyable book. This is an epic book which I absolutely loved.

I absolutely loved this book. It is a funny, quirky and definitely awesome book. I also loved all of the characters, even Total made me laugh!!

Charlie Upchurch, age 9

A brilliant book packed with things that will make you laugh your head off.

Timmy Failure is the most clueless boy you will ever meet. He has moved into his great-aunt's house until his mother gets a new job. Many weird things happen: Timmy breaks his leg, Total buries himself in the sofa and Timmy tapes Rollo (who is supposed to be Timmy's best friend) to a desk.

There was a detective contest at Timmy's school about who took a globe. Now Timmy, who sees himself as the best detective in the nation, thought this would be easy, so he didn't hand in his application till the last day. But his great-aunt took him to school and her car only goes at three miles per hour, so he missed the deadline. Luckily the Glouberman academy (the school for bad kids) deadline for the competition is a month later. So Timmy is really naughty so he can go to Glouberman, but it doesn't go very well...

You can follow Charlie's blog at: www.coolkidscreations.net

Alexander Bisland, age 8

This book is about a boy called Timmy Failure, who is a detective and is about to solve the biggest case in the world! It is a competition to find a globe. Timmy's motto is that he is the "president of the greatest detective agency in the state, perhaps the nation!" You can only find out if he is the best detective by reading the book to find out if he cracks the case.

Although this is the second book in the series, I like them both the same.

The pictures are excellent and funny!

I recommend this book to 8+ and to children who like funny detectives.

I give it 100/100.

Sam Harper, age 10

This is fantastic. I would recommend this to all fans of 'Diary of a Wimpy Kid' and 'Barry Loser'. It's brilliantly funny, you'll love it!

'Now Look What You've Done' is the second episode in the hilarious 'Timmy Failure' series. Timmy is back with his chicken-nugget-munching sidekick, Total, and his worst enemy, Corrina Corrina, aka 'The Wedgie'. This time Timmy's got a new vehicle, a new house and two new cases but with a secret lover / assassin he's also got lots of problems. I loved all of Timmy's amazing vehicles but the Buttermobile, was by far the best. The theme tune of 'great Timmy sees all of your sins so do not try shenanigans' was brilliant. Timmy thinks about life as a detective and believes everyone is trying to kill him and this makes him do some really strange and very funny things.

I thought that Timmy's first story was fantastic and the second in the series is even more amazing. 'Now Look What You've Done' is the punch line for the book and is a perfectly fitting title.

Mary Murphy, age 13 - St. Colm's High School

This book was an amazing read. I have read the first 'Timmy Failure' book but this one topped it off.

I think this book is laid out better than the first book, as it is easy to read and more fun to look at. As in the first book there are characters like, Timmy and his polar bear from the arctic, Total.

Although in this book, Timmy and his mother are living with their aunt in a mansion, her late husband left her. She is a very unusual aunt because she has invented her own shoes with wheels on them. Though no shoe company or store will accept them as they continuously tell her they are “dangerous and unsafe.” Like in the first book Timmy has still got his agency, though in this book it’s not the “Failure Inc.” Total renamed it as the “Total Failure Inc.” I really love reading the ‘Timmy Failure’ books as they are funny and worth the read. I would recommend this to both boys and girls.