

LoveReading4kids Reader reviews of
You Can't Take An Elephant On The Bus
By Patricia Cleveland-Peck &
Illustrated by David Tazzyman

Below are the complete reviews, written by LoveReading4kids members.

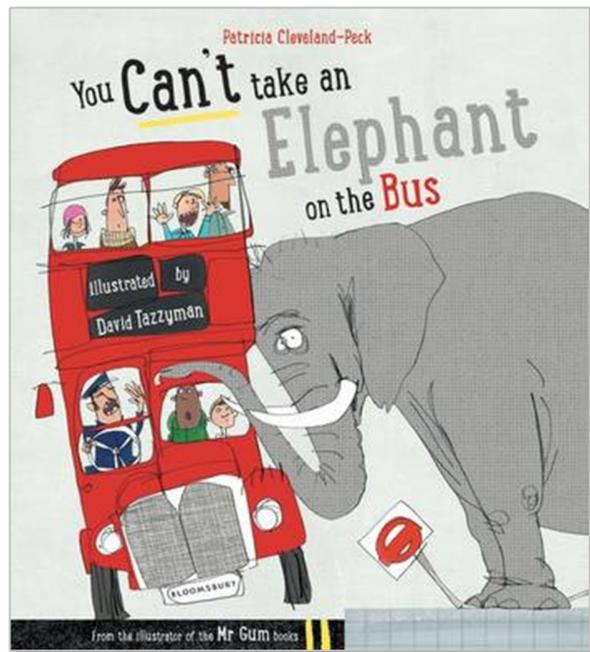

Abi Zinkin, age 5

This is so funny. I would give it 100 out of 10. I like the pig at the end. He's so funny.

Both Abi, older children, and myself enjoyed this book. We loved the drawings on each page, the different methods and textures used to illustrate the trees, the sea, the sky. We loved the rhyming text which had us laughing, especially at the centipede and the hippo. The best thing was all the little details on each page, and the expressions on the people's and animals' faces.

We didn't guess the ending, but liked the interactive question!

www.MinervaReads.com

Nicola & Ruby Laverty, age 5

Clever rhymes and fabulous illustrations. This is a really super book. We loved it and enjoyed thinking of other animals and transport combinations.

Eleanor, age 2 (and mummy)

My daughter and I laughed our way through every page of this book. From seals throwing people out of cars because they can't drive, to *giraffe's heads poking out of airplanes, to pigs riding skateboards down a fairground ride. A very funny book, with plenty to look at on each page. Bright, colorful illustrations, and lovely rhyming verse. This book was a big hit and we read it three times in a row so I think that speaks for itself.

Ellen Hall, age 5

This book is very silly! It is about animals and how you cannot put them in many places we go to, 'you can't sit a monkey in a trolley, for monkeys are naughty and find it jolly!' I like the rhyming words. The pictures are really good too. I think everyone would find this book funny. It's great!